Brothers Meet After 51 Years

By Anthony Cesare

SEPARATED by vast distances and for more than half-century span in time, a Stroudsburg man has finally been reunited with the lone member of his family. For exactly 51 years, Anthony Gallo, of 232 Main St., Stroudsburg and his brother Salvatore, of Sircusa, Sicily, had not seen each other. Their correspondence was spotty and as both were well up in age, it appeared that perhaps the brothers may never see each other again.

Anthony is 81 years of age; his brother is 84. The two brothers are the sons of the late Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Gallo, who died in 1922. There were no other family members.

A turn of fate was what generated the rekindling of the two as time and distance kept lessening any chance of a reunion.

Visited Here In 1909 Salvatore, despite his many years, was still farming on his land in Sircusa, Sicily. The distance was vast, but he thought often of the Poconos since his last visit here in 1909.

His wife had died and he lived alone. But a daughter, Mrs. Nancy Calore, of Paterson, N. J., visited the Mediterranean island and persuaded her father to return with her to the U. S. Salvatore had to make a difficult decision. The choice lay between living where he had sweated and toiled on the land he had loved or rejoining his family and the loved ones he had not seen in many, many years.

He decided to abandon his childhood land, the place where all his memories were grounded. He came to America.

Salvatore had raised a family of two boys and two girls. All were married and had traveled to different lands to reside. His sons chose Argentina and Venezuela. His other daughter is now living in Australia, while Mrs. Calore resides in Paterson.

Anthony Gallo, a lifelong resident of the Poconos, reared a family of four girls and three boys, all of whom are living in the Stroudsburg area with two exceptions. One son, Sam Gallo, is currently in Baltimore, the others are Mrs. Angie Walter, of Palmyra, N. J.; Paul, of Mt.

Pocono; Mrs. Josephine Cook, Mrs. Mary Boeglin, Anthony Jr., and Helen Gallo, all of Stroudsburg.

The recent reunion of the brothers saw them embrace heartily. They recognized each other instantly when they first met face to face.

The older Gallo finds the Poconos just as wonderful, if not more wonderful than what they were during his first visit in 1909. After a few weeks' visit with his brother here in Stroudsburg, he will reside with his daughter in Paterson.

Legislators Return To Harrisburg

HARRISBURG (AP) — Refusal of Republicans to agree to final adjournment of the legislature "has made for orderly running of the government," the House GOP floor leader said Sunday.

"I think our remaining in session will have a salutary effect," said Rep. Albert W. Johnson of McKean County, "and it hasn't cost but very little to do it."

Johnson made his comment, in an interview, to answer Democratic claims there is no reason for the legislature to postpone final adjournment of the 1960 session any longer.

Rep. Stephen McCann, House Democratic floor leader, has claimed that dragging out the session was costing the taxpayers too much money.

Johnson, while supporting his party's policy in refusing to adjourn, wouldn't commit himself on the possibility Republicans may give into the Democrats' adjournment demands when the legislature reconvenes Monday after a summer-long recess.

But Sen. M. Harvey Taylor, Senate president pro tempore, was more definite. He said Republicans would refuse to adjourn the session if it meant ending a legislative probe of alleged voting frauds in Philadelphia, a Democratic stronghold.

"If our vote investigating committee cannot function, we will recess instead of adjourn," he said Saturday.

Two Congo Delegations Seek U.N. Recognition

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Diplomats said Sunday night they expect a fight in the U.N. security Council over which of two rival delegations from the Congo the Council should listen to.

President Joseph Kasavubu and Premier Patrice Lumumba each notified the United Nations he is sending a delegation to the Council's next meeting on the Congo, set for Monday.

Kasavubu and Lumumba each claims top leadership in the Congo.

Delegates generally predicted that the Soviet Union would object to the Council's giving a seat at its table to the Kasavubu group.

Some foresaw that if the Russians did that, the American delegation then would object to the Council's seating the Lumumba group.

Valerian A. Zorin will make his first appearance at the meeting as the newly appointed Soviet representative on the Council. He arrived in New York Saturday night to take over from Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov, who was called back to Moscow.

The Belgian radio reported that Kasavubu's delegation passed through Brazzaville in the old French Congo en route to New York but that Lumumba's was kept from leaving Brazzaville airport.

The broadcast said President Abbe Fulbert Youlou of the newly independent Republic of Congo, whose capital is Brazzaville, barred Lumumba's representatives from taking off for New York and told them to go back across the Congo River to Leopoldville.

Kasavubu's delegation, endorsed by rival Premier Joseph Ileo, is made up of Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko, a senator named Fele and a parliamentary deputy named Badianga.

U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold in a note published Sunday, warned the Soviet Union against "the precedent that may be created" by its flying Congolese government troops around in the Congo.

Although he did not define the precedent, he apparently meant that if the Russians carried troops for Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba, other powers might have an excuse to do the same for Lumumba's rivals—President Moise Tshombe of secessionist Katanga Province and Albert Kalonji of the so-called Mineral State in Kasai Province.

Lumumba Thwarted Trying To Seize Radio Station

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — A show of United Nations machine guns Sunday thwarted an attempt by Patrice Lumumba to seize the Leopoldville radio.

Blue-helmeted Ghana troops took positions in foxholes dug around the radio station building as Lumumba, the deposed Congolese premier, led about 20 armed soldiers toward it.

"I called you here to help," Lumumba shouted to Ghana Lt. George Short, an Englishman.

"I will fire if you don't leave," Short replied calmly.

"Excellency, don't risk your life," screamed Serge Michel, Lumumba's press advisor who was sent to the Congo by the Algerian National Liberation Front.

As Lumumba turned around, half a dozen bewildered Congolese soldiers handed their rifles to grinning Ghanians.

Their arms were returned later and sullen-faced, they drove off in a truck, after staring at the Ghanians for about half an hour.

Gen. Victor Lundula, the ex-sergeant who is supposed to command "the Congolese national army," watched the incident, biting his lips. Later he drove off in an official car flying the blue Congo standard.

One of Lumumba's prime points of ire at the United Nations has been the U.N. seizure of Leopoldville's radio station. He urgently wants it back so he can talk to the Congolese people and exercise his persuasive brand of oratory.

For two days Lumumba has been threatening to seize control of the station closed by the United Nations last Tuesday to prevent inflammatory statements.

Earlier, a U.N. military team had moved out to enforce a truce in the civil war in Katanga and Kasai provinces.

The four-officer team, commanded by Col. S. M. Mollersward of Sweden, left in a United Nations plane to set up headquarters in Elisabethville, Katanga's capital.

Order Newsmen Out Of E. Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — Two West German newsmen were ordered out of East Berlin Sunday on charges stemming from a Communist East Germany's squeeze on travel inside divided Berlin.

The Reds accused the two reporters of attempting to intimidate West German businessmen into closing their exhibits at the big Leipzig Trade Fair in reprisal against the Communist travel restrictions.

Retaliatory measures by the Western Allies against violation of the four-power agreement covering free travel in Berlin were widely expected.

PRR Strike Negotiators In Session

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A union official said Sunday night that he thought there would be a settlement of the 11-day old Pennsylvania Railroad strike before the night was over.

A company spokesman would only say that such top officials as James Symes, board chairman, were standing by in case the two negotiating teams reached an agreement in their first major joint talks since the strike began.

"I think so," said Frank Sheehan, director of organizations for the Transport Workers Union, when reporters asked him if he thought a settlement would be reached during the night.

Quill Arrives Shortly after Sheehan's statement, Michael J. Quill, president of the TWU, walked jauntily into the lobby of the hotel where the joint session was being held.

He parried the question of newsmen concerning the imminence of a settlement. He appeared to be in a jovial mood. Not once did he say—as he has said so often in the last 11 days—that no progress was made.

He arrived about midnight.

Hope Debate On Religion Will Cease

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy said Sunday he wishes debate could be cut off on the religious question.

The Democratic presidential nominee made his comment in response to remarks his opponent, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, made Sunday on a television show.

Nixon had said that he hopes both candidates would refrain from discussing religion.

Kennedy issued a statement on his way to this defense-minded city where he paused before taking off for Texas and almost certain religious controversy there.

Better Off

"I wish we could cut off debate on this subject," Kennedy said in a statement.

"I think we'd be better off. How can we possibly improve on the Constitution?"

There was no indication, however, that Kennedy would change in any way from discussing religion when asked or that he would not appear before a ministerial association in Houston Monday night.

In his appearance here, Kennedy said the Republican administration is endangering national security by failing to supply jobs for skilled defense workers who thereby drift into other work.

Oppose Religious Debate

NEW YORK (AP)—One hundred Protestant, Jewish and Catholic leaders urged their religious organizations Sunday to oppose any attempts to make religious affiliation the basis of the voter's choice in the presidential campaign.

The group—including 55 Protestants, 29 Roman Catholics, one Greek Orthodox and 15 Jews—called their statement "an attempt to extract a higher ethic regarding religion and politics that would be applicable to the practical considerations of the current presidential campaign."

A Protestant group, led by Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, issued a statement last week which said a Roman Catholic president would be "under extreme pressure by the hierarchy of his Church." However, Dr. Peale, a supporter of Republican presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon, later said public agitation of religion as an issue in the campaign would be "in the long run harmful to our country."

Nixon is a Quaker. His opponent, Sen. John F. Kennedy, is a Roman Catholic.

Sunday's statement bore such signatures as the Rt. Rev. Arthur Lichtenberger, presiding bishop, Protestant Episcopal Church; Methodist Bishops G. Bromley Oxnam of Scarsdale, N.Y., William C. Martin of Dallas, and Lloyd C. Wicke of New York; Archbishop Iakovos of the Greek Orthodox Church; Richard Cardinal Cushing, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston.

Coastal Points In Donna's Path

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP)—Hurricane Donna, having killed more than 120 persons during its week-long journey of destruction, crashed into the United States mainland Sunday for the second time.

Carrying winds of more than 115 miles an hour and churning up mountainous waves, Donna smashed ashore again along this vacation coastline with a fury that threatened the East Coast all the way to New England.

Donna, having moved into the Atlantic after carving a path of death and destruction nearly the whole length of Florida, picked up both speed and intensity as she moved northeastward.

Torrential rains accompanied the storm. Streets in low areas were flooded even at low tide. The wind tore at roofs, trees and power and communication lines.

North To Portsmouth

The Weather Bureau hoisted hurricane warnings northward to Portsmouth, N.H. Gale warnings and a hurricane watch were posted all the way to Eastport, Maine. Donna raced forward at 35 miles an hour and the Weather Bureau said she might pick up forward speed to 45 miles an hour during the night.

The Weather Bureau warned of tides 5 to 7 feet above normal and urged persons living in low areas to seek shelter on high ground. Tornadoes spawned by Donna struck in Charleston and at other points along coastal Carolinas.

Donna had killed at least five people since she burst through the Florida Keys last week. The first Carolinas death was that of John C. Flood, 41, a Coast Guardsman. He was electrocuted at Wilmington when the radio antenna he was working on was blown against power lines by high winds.

Towns Evacuated

Some 75 miles southwest from Morehead City, the towns of Carolina Beach, Kure Beach and Wrightsville Beach evacuated to escape the force of the hurricane.

The violent tornadoes slugged Charleston and Garden City Beach in South Carolina and communities in Bladen and Sampson County, N.C., some 60 miles inland from Wilmington. About 19 injuries were reported at Charleston.

A Clinton, N.C., hospital reported the eight children of the Wilbert Carter family, ranging in age from 5 to 18 years, were admitted for treatment of various hurts, none critical. Their parents were away when the storm destroyed their house.

A restaurant at Garden City Beach was flattened, and a house and barns were damaged at Elizabethtown.

Former County Residents Safe

THERE was considerable excitement and quite a few sleepless nights, but Monroe Countians now living in Florida apparently weathered the hurricane well according to information available last night.

The destruction caused by Hurricane Donna was of personal concern to many local people with friends or relatives in the path of the storm.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Ostrom, whose home in Bradenton was in the path of the storm, spent an anxious night during which they didn't even attempt to go to bed. Yesterday morning their shrubbery was ruined and many of the trees were down and so were they, according to the David Halllocks who managed to get a telephone call through to them last night after trying all day.

The Will Kraemers, who live in Riviera Beach, called their family in Stroudsburg to report that all was well, thanks to advance warnings. They had prepared for the blow and suffered little damage.

Smiths, Owens

They had as the guests the Bob Smiths and their daughter who left their ocean front hotel to take refuge with the Kraemers, who also reported that the William Owens who live in nearby Hollywood were also all right.

Mrs. Harlan Felker also heard from her brother, James Merring, who lives in Lake Worth, Fla., yesterday morning. The peak of the storm had passed about 5 a.m. yesterday leaving Miami and Miami Beach looking "as if a bomb had hit," he reported. The ocean was still running about 11 feet higher than normal, he said.

He also reported that Robert Brink, who lives in Lake Worth, had come safely through the storm.

Florida Loss Approaches $40 Million

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Death-dealing Donna, one of the century's worst hurricanes, churned northward in the Atlantic at accelerated speed Sunday night after leaving Florida a major disaster area.

Eight persons were known dead and two others were missing. Property damage in the Florida Keys alone was estimated by insurance adjusters at between 30 and 40 million dollars.

Grim-faced Marines, armed with m1 rifles and orders to shoot any looters, patrolled the wreckage of the Florida Keys. Residents of battered Marathon were "boarding water like gold dust," according to Sheriff John Spotswood. The Marine patrols from the Key West Naval Base were augmented by sailors of the Navy Shore Patrol and all available sheriff's deputies and state troopers.

Cut Off

Many communities in the state were still cut off and residents were groggy from the pounding of the storm's 130 to 150 mile an hour winds. Other areas were digging out the debris left by Hurricane Donna which first struck the Keys late Friday.

The three major citrus producing counties of Polk, Orange and Lake were swept by hurricane winds. Damage to the $250 million dollar citrus crop was expected to run as high as 50 to 80 per cent in some areas.

Southeastern area Red Cross headquarters in Atlanta gave a preliminary estimate of 2,182 homes damaged or destroyed in the state, including 600 trailers.

Three more Florida deaths and a fatality at Wilmington brought to eight the number of persons killed in storm-connected accidents.

In addition two men were missing and presumed killed when the storm demolished a general store in Bonita Springs. They were identified as George Brainerd, 55, the store owner, and Lindy Landau, 50, a bartender.

Other Deaths

Deaths reported yesterday included Alvin H. Brown, 38, of Gainesville, whose car was swept off a highway; Mrs. Emily Grundy, who drowned on lower Matecumbe Key; a caretaker killed by flying debris at Sugar Loaf Key; and John C. Flood, a 41-year-old Coast Guardsman, electrocuted while working on a radio antenna at Wilmington. The antenna was blown against power lines by high winds.

Both the death toll and the personal injury reports were considered surprisingly low in view of the fact the vicious winds blew directly through the heart of Florida.

Explosion In Tamaqua Felt In Stroudsburgs

A MYSTERIOUS explosion-like effect that shook the Stroudsburgs area early yesterday morning was caused when a storage building for explosives blew up in Tamaqua.

The Daily Record received numerous inquiries yesterday concerning the cause of the early morning blast.

One inquiring woman reported that it "felt like an earthquake." She said she was viewing television at the time and the force of the explosion shook the house.

The explosion vibrations and sound carried for more than 30 miles away from the site.

No injuries were reported. The explosion, at 12:45 a.m., occurred at the Atlas Powder Co. plant. The one-story, 20-by-30 foot storage building was isolated from other structures. The sprawling plant was closed.

Although the explosion lit up the sky and was heard as far away as Allentown, the company said damage to plant facilities was limited to broken windows.

There were reports of similar damage to homes near the plant.

The company said it did not know the cause of the explosion and probably never would. The type of explosive involved was not disclosed. The building was located in an experimental area of the plant.

A company spokesman said the sound of the blast apparently bounced off low hanging clouds and that was the reason the noise carried so far. He added that plant operations would not be interrupted.

He's headed for the Court House to register for the November election. He has only seven days to get his name on the rolls before the Sept. 19 deadline. Registrars will be at Brodheads-ville tonight and Barrett Township tomorrow night to register prospective voters in those areas.

But Marriage Will Have To Wait

New Miss America Is Real Charmer

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Miss America 1961 is a pretty girl with an all-A average who likes to cook, sew, swim and write.

The beauty with brains, Nancy Anne Fleming, 18, of Montague, Mich., was chosen Saturday night as the latest in a long line of modern-day Cinderellas.

Sixteen former Miss Americas and nearly 400 former contestants here for a reunion watched her receive the oldest crown awarded for beauty and talent in the nation.

Meeting with newsmen Sunday morning after only three hours sleep, Nancy—who has dark brown hair and gray-green eyes—looked radiant in a black wool crepe dress as she spoke of her plans and dreams for the coming year and beyond.

Very Happy "I hope to be as much of a credit to the title as my predecessors were," said Nancy, who succeeded Lynda Lee Mead of Natchez, Miss., as Miss America.

The new queen's talent offering in the pageant was a fashion show in which she demonstrated how a simple navy sheath could be turned into a dress for all occasions.

Another domestic talent in which she excels is cooking, and she won two cherry pie baking contests at home before entering the Miss Michigan pageant.

Nancy plans to combine these talents with writing, another love. She will enter Michigan State University after her magic year is over and major in home economics and journalism with an eye toward becoming a fashion writer.

Nancy said she had no steady boy friend as yet and doesn't plan to marry until she finishes college.

The 5-foot-6, 116-pound charmer is an excellent swimmer who has worked as a life guard at White Lake in Montague for the last two summers.

Seven years ago, she saved the life of her brother, Robert Jr., then 4, when he fell into the lake.

Nancy won a $10,000 scholarship along with the Miss America crown and it is expected she will earn upward of $50,000 through the coming year from public appearances.

The girl who came in second, Suzanne Reamo, Miss California, received a $3,000 scholarship. Miss North Carolina, Ann Herring, who was third, got $2,500 while fourth, Ruth Rea, Miss District of Columbia, received $2,000 and Miss Indiana, Tommye Glaze, fifth, got $1,500.

Interest On Unpaid Loan

By William A. Doyle

Q. You have written that, in the case of most mortgages, the interest is charged on the unpaid principal of the loan. I believe that statement is misleading and incorrect.

My understanding is that prepayment on the unpaid balance of a mortgage merely speeds up the final payment of the mortgage but the amount paid in interest continues as originally required. The savings in interest payments is derived only because the life of the mortgage is shortened by prepayments.

This question has been debated in my family for the past four years. Am I correct?

A. It's a shame to see you lose a family argument. But you're wrong.

The column you mention was about mortgages insured by the Veterans Administration. It explained, correctly, that on VA mortgages and most others, the interest is charged on the unpaid principal.

If you have a mortgage (let's say at 5 1/2 per cent a year interest) you pay that interest on the unpaid balance with each payment you make. As you reduce the principal of the loan, the amount of cash you pay out in interest is also reduced. The interest rate remains the same, but because you reduce the principal, the dollars you pay in interest are lower.

If you speed up your payments (prepay on the mortgage) you cut the unpaid balance even faster. The result is a saving in cold cash—out of pocket.

Now, some mortgages do not work this way. But all VA mortgages and most others do have this provision.

Q. Would it be considered malfeasance of office if directors of a company sell thousands of shares of stock in the company that they own just before they vote to reduce the dividend paid on the stock.

The dividend cut would, of course, send the price of the stock down. And the directors would have received high prices for the stock they sold.

A. Malfeasance is as good a word as any. This is all covered by the "anti-Wiggin" provision of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. It is called that because it was written into the law following the exposure of a case similar to the one you mention by a guy named Wiggin.

This section of the law requires each officer, director and also each owner of more than 10 per cent of a company's stock to make monthly reports to the Securities and Exchange Commission and to the stock exchange on which the stock is issued, showing how many shares he owns and any changes since the last report.

The law also makes it possible for the company to recover from any "insider" any profits he has made by buying and selling (or selling and buying) the company's stock within any six-month period.

On the surface, this may sound great. But let's face it. Enforcement of the law is just about impossible. The "insider reports" are often months late.

We have come a long way toward cleaning up abuses by corporate officials. However, there's still room for improvement.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

Some of your friends and neighbors have been serving you a good long time

Today's good electric service didn't just happen. It took a lot of invention, learning, and a great deal of money over the years. It also took a lot of teamwork on the part of the folks behind your electric switch . . . your friends and neighbors working in your service.

PP&L is now 40 years old. From the beginning, its goal has been this very point of working in your service. In fact, its motto is efficient public service.

Important to PP&L's progress have been the many years of experience represented in the people who man and manage the Company. On this, the Company's 40th birthday, we proudly single out one of the many employees with us these many years.

Body Of Missing Man Found Close To Camp

SATURDAY at 3:25 p.m. ended the 12-day search for Dennis J. O'Conner, 74, of Riverview Home for the Aged, Philadelphia, when his badly decomposed body was found in Kinard Swamp, a mile and a half from where he became lost in north-east Monroe County.

Discovering the body was Sgt. Bryan Burke, a member of the special rescue squad from Tobyhanna Army Signal Depot, as he was making his way through the swamp.

O'Conner had gone to Camp William Penn, near the Monroe Pike County line in Middle

END OF RIDE—This late model sedan is about to be towed away after it rolled about 25 feet on rainsoaked Stokes Mill Road early yesterday morning. The driver, Glenn DeHaven, 22, of Saylorsburg RD 1, miraculously escaped serious injury. He received cuts of the arms and legs and was treated at Monroe County General Hospital. Vehicle skidded on wet pavement about 300 feet east of the Fifth St. intersection.

Daniel G. Warner, Monroe County coroner, Stroudsburg, said "death was due to natural causes, aggravated by exposure to the elements."

Warner placed the time of death at "in or on Sept. 1."

O'Conner was first missed Aug. 30 when roll call was taken at the time a bus was being loaded with guests returning to Philadelphia. Camp officials delayed the departure of the bus and began a preliminary search, then sent the bus on its way and notified the State Police.

Included in the search party were Troopers Nicholas Arch and Alex Kearn, Milford and Stroudsburg State Police Barracks respectively; John Doehling, Monroe County game protector, East Stroudsburg; Dillon Millard Bush and Bernard Jagers, both members of the camp staff; Samuel Bates, Analomink; members of the Marshalls Creek Fire Co.; the U.S. Army Rescue Squad, a volunteer unit from Tobyhanna Signal Depot; and Paul Keeler, director of the camp.

Many other volunteers aided in the search at various times. Two state policemen brought a bloodhound here from Hershey, but were handicapped in picking up traces of O'Conner because of a heavy rain which fell Aug. 31, the day after the elderly man wandered off from camp.

The Riverview guests — 90 men and 65 women — were under the direction of Albert Battles, supervisor of the home, who stayed at camp and helped in the search.

Both Camp William Penn and the Riverview Home are owned and operated by the City of Philadelphia.

Two Crashes Investigated By Police

STATE Police from Mount Pocono Barracks investigated two accidents happening over the weekend in their area.

Troopers reported George Behr, 71, of Tamaqua and William R. Fowler, 28, of Ontario, Canada, were involved in an accident Saturday at 3:45 p.m. at the intersection of Routes 611 and 490.

Injured was Ida Maloy, 79, of Tamaqua, a passenger in the Behr car. She was removed to the Monroe County General Hospital where she was treated and released.

Police said Behr was traveling east on Route 490 and crossed Route 611 hitting the Fowler car. They estimated the damage to Fowler's car at $1,000 and $50 to the Behr vehicle.

Behr will be arrested on the charge of failure to yield the right of way, police reported.

The other accident investigated by the troopers happened Friday approximately four miles south of Mt. Pocono when the car driven by Attwood Kerr Howes, 22, of Clarks Summit, struck the rear of a tractor-trailer operated by Joseph Telford, 37, of Scranton.

Police said Howes was attempting to pass the tractor-trailer.

They reported no injuries.

94 Older Workers Given Employment

Record Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG — Life—new life, that is—began at 45 or over for 94 unemployed Monroe Countians in July.

This number of 45-and-over county residents were placed in jobs in the Stroudsburg area during the month, it was revealed yesterday in a report by the State Bureau of Employment Security and the Board of Problems of Older Workers.

Four of those to gain employment were 65 or over. All are nonagricultural placements.

Interestingly, the number placed in jobs in the Stroudsburg area was over a third more than the 60 new applications filed in July. During the month there were 213 on the unemployed rolls, including the new applicants in this period.

The 94 Monroe County placements showed an increase of six over June of this year. In the preceding month out of a total of 181 on the rolls 82 persons of 45 and over and six of 65 and over were given employment.

In July, a year ago, out of 143 seeking jobs in the Stroudsburg area a total of 122 of 45 and over and six who had reached the age of 65 or over were placed, virtually ending, for the time being, unemployment among the older workers in the county.

Per Capita Revenues Exceed Expenditures

Record Harrisburg Bureau

HARRISBURG — On a per capita basis, Monroe County revenues have been exceeding expenditures, the State Department of Internal Affairs disclosed yesterday.

An exhaustive report covering an analysis of county finances throughout the state just completed by the department for the year 1958 shows per capita revenue for the county during the year standing at $12.34 while per capita expenditures in the county rounded out to $10.78.

Total revenue collected by the county (exclusive of state liquid fuels tax apportioned to communities) stood at $486,322 for the year, broken down along these lines:

Real estate and occupations taxes, $259,370; personal property tax, $41,709; fines and forfeits, $4,272; interest and rents, $500; grants and gifts, $119,462; departmental earnings (revenues earned by county offices), $18,834, and liquid fuels tax retained by county, $41,975.

On the credit, or expenditure side, total Monroe County expenditures for the year were listed as $424,607. Of this total, according to the department, $169,992 was listed as "general government" expenses.

Judicial costs in the county stood at $62,337; the county's penal and correctional program, $45,813; hospitals and health organizations, $5,000; highways, $72,797; libraries, $9,500; airports, $15,000; civil defense expenditures, $6,228; interest on outstanding monetary obligations of the county, $581, and "other expenditures," $37,339.

Man Jailed, Two Freed

TWO men were released from the Monroe County Jail and one committed during the weekend, Deputy Sheriff Henry Johns said last night.

Released were Sedge Henning, 21, of 440 Chestnut St., East Stroudsburg and Duran Kunkle, 23, of Stroudsburg RD 2.

Both men were arrested by Stroudsburg Police and charged with disorderly conduct. They were released after paying a fine and costs.

William G. Kenschraft of 44 Garden St., Stroudsburg was committed on a charge of disorderly conduct.

He will be given a hearing today in Stroudsburg.

Restrictions On Khrush

The United States is determined to blunt, insofar as it is possible, the propaganda purpose of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's forthcoming visit to the United Nations General Assembly in New York.

Over the weekend, this country imposed unprecedented restrictions on the movements of the "uninvited guest" during his stay in the United States beginning next Monday.

Spelled out, the order means that Premier Khrushchev must not leave Manhattan Island and that, even there, he is to limit his movements to those required by his official duties as head of the Soviet delegation to the U.N.

This is a slap in the face which we are overjoyed to see Uncle Sam administer to the Russian Bear. Although Khrushchev may be expected to come up with some scheme to lessen the full impact of the restrictions, the new ground rules established by the State Department are almost certain to arouse Soviet tempers to a high pitch.

They will understand the intent and purpose of the order, nevertheless, for it is written in the same dramatic language which the Communist conspiracy has authorized so many times.

Our officials told Russia the restrictions are necessary because of security requirements. That is only one of the reasons, as everyone knows. We cannot prevent Premier Khrushchev from representing the Soviet Union at the U.N. whenever he chooses.

But we can curb his travel while in this country and prevent his visit from becoming the gigantic propaganda show intended. By so doing, we can retaliate for Russia's cancellation of President Eisenhower's good will tour of the Soviet Union, a trip planned jointly by the two countries before Khrushchev came to this country last year.

The restrictions, however, should be only the beginning of new efforts to expose Russia's two-face policy for what it is. While preaching peaceful co-existence on one side, the Kremlin has practiced a ruthless policy of mass murder, lying, espionage and every other means possible to press its campaign for world domination.

Our U.N. delegation, along with others from the free world, should look upon Khrushchev's visit to the General Assembly as a golden opportunity to re-state a number of questions which Russia has refused to answer in the past.

We might put to him some embarrassing questions about Russia's defiance of the United Nations in the Congo, about the Kremlin's interference in the affairs of our hemispheric neighbor, Cuba, and by all means re-open the Hungarian controversy.

And we might salvage some propaganda benefit out of the U-2 affair by posing any number of pointed questions concerning Russia's world-wide spy network, with special emphasis on espionage in the United States.

Yes, Premier Khrushchev hopes to reap propaganda capital out of the trip to the United Nations. Perhaps the Western delegations can turn the tables on the unwanted guest by outsmarting him all the way.

It's obvious he's not coming here to advance the cause of world peace, so let's consider the visit in its true light and play the game according to the pattern Mr. K. is expected to follow—only let's score all the points ourselves.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Your Life Record

The hometown newspaper—like the rising and setting of the sun—is a vital part of our everyday living.

A letter to the editor could easily bring the point home like this:

"You were here over 50 years ago and you will find in the files of your newspaper a report of my birth. Your paper also had stories when I played football in school, when I graduated and later when I got married. You have reported many anniversaries in our family, the birth of our four children, their activities in school and elsewhere.

And in late years you have reported the arrival of our grandchildren. Why, you and your paper have written and printed a life history of our family. And why shouldn't we look upon you and your paper as a member of our family?"

Yes, your local newspaper is the recorder of the life of a community—business, personal, political and national. Being a constant subscriber is a good habit to acquire because the local paper isn't self-perpetuating as is the sun. It needs your support even as the community needs its service. —Uniontown Herald

George Sokolsky Says . . .

No Debatable Issues

Labor Day, having come and gone, the Presidential campaign of 1960 is on in earnest. Such added attractions as Henry Cabot Lodge and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller eating bagels and lox at Grossinger's will give way to the main business at hand which is the great debate between Richard Nixon and John Kennedy.

Lodge and Rockefeller are reputed to have also eaten kosher egg-rolls, a concoction which would break the heart of a Peking chef.

As has become usual in recent elections, the managers of both candidates have signed pledges to conduct a clean campaign. The aforesaid managers have been duly photographed with Charles P. Taft, brother of the late and lamented Robert A. Taft.

That ritual being over with, the campaign will proceed as expected. It is likely to be one of the dirtiest in political history.

It is bound to be a dirty campaign unless some debatable issues appear. Up to now no such issues have appeared. Neither Nixon nor Kennedy has projected a great thought. If, therefore, there is nothing to say or the candidates do not wish to say anything worth while, the campaign is whittled down to an ad hominem discussion.

The Democrats say, "Tricky Dick" and refer to how Nixon defeated Jerry Voorhis and Helen Gahagan Douglas—methods which invoke praise in others who like a candidate to fight for his job. And the Republicans do not quarrel with the Pope but question the reliability of Pop.

By Pop, they mean Joe Kennedy, a very shrewd business man who has accumulated several hundred million dollars and many public honors without any unusual scandal.

The Liberals say that Nixon is anti-Semitic because he called Melvyn Douglas, Hesselberg, which was his name at birth; the Republicans spread the tale that Kennedy is anti-Semitic because his father, Pop, as he will be referred to in this campaign, once said something favorable about Hitler.

The Anti-Defamation League gets into the ring by giving both of the candidates a clean bill of health, a "hekscher" which means that they are both kosher, which may or may not influence the voters.

Meanwhile, both candidates are very much concerned about Texas. That state is likely to go Republican in the 1960 election. One reason that Lyndon Johnson was nominated for the Vice Presidency was that the Southern states were definitely in a state of revolt at the Democratic Convention.

It seemed wise and even necessary to nominate someone who could hold the Solid South in line. It appeared logical to the Democrats, at the time, to entrust such a task to the popular Lyndon Johnson with the assistance of Sam Rayburn.

Also, Lyndon Johnson was advertised as a conservative and it was hoped that his conservatism would take the curse off the excessive liberalism of John Kennedy.

It seems to be working out differently and the place where the error is showing up most sharply is Texas where anti-Kennedyism is not merely a matter of politics but has become a profound religious issue.

Despite all that is said about separation of church and state and keeping religion out of politics, no one has proposed keeping politics out of religion. The violence of the attack has astonished all political observers who generally held that this was not 1928 and that the country was a broad-minded to invoke a religious issue.

Nevertheless, this has happened and to ignore it is to disregard a major sociological phenomenon of our times. Many Roman Catholics regret that the issue should be joined over the personality of John Kennedy, who, in his public pronouncements, has not always or even generally accepted the official position of his church.

Whatever is to be said about this particular fact, Catholics are growing increasingly resentful over the type of argument adduced to reject a Catholic for the Presidency and the Republicans are sincerely worried about a boomerang.

In Texas, however, the anti-Catholic attitude is strong. My own mail astonishes me both by its volume and its language, particularly when the letters come from many parts of Texas, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Here, apparently, are anti-Papist centers, virile, well-financed, positive and uncompromising. Such excitement can only increase in virulence between now and Election Day and it will take great statesmanship on both sides not to permit this divisive force to lead to violence in places.

With Walter Winchell On Broadway

The Broadway Olympics. The challengers are entering the Broadway arena for a series of rigorous contests demanding the utmost in training, physical stamina and intellectual ingenuity. . . . One of the champions, a sure fire box-office winner, is Lucille Ball. Her marquee-power alone guarantees the success of the show, a musical titled "Wildcat." It represents quite a contrast to Lucy's early days on Broadway. She was fired from her first show after one week and dropped from the second after two weeks. She literally starved for months before securing another job.

Miss Teevee, incidentally, contends that a sense of inferiority made her a clown. She explains: "When I was twelve years old, I found out that the easiest way to play people and win their approval was to make them laugh."

The winning team that created "My Fair Lady" (Loewe, Lerner, Moss Hart and Julie Andrews) is coming to town with another songdanza, "Camelot." Not many people are aware of the tough toil and heartbreak that went into making "My Fair Lady" a superhit. For forty-eight hours before it opened, Moss Hart gave Julie Andrews intensive instructions in the role.

It combined the techniques of brainwashing and third-degree. Mr. Hart later stated that "it was the sort of thing that you couldn't do in front of company without destroying a human being." But Miss Andrews emerged from the crucible as a star.

England's flamboyant entry is Brendan Behan's "The Hostage." Mr. Behan, the playwright, is a sort of adult delinquent. In London, while cold sober, he would interrupt his play with outbursts against actors and audiences. Obviously, he is hamnier than the thespians who recite his lines. . . . He arrived in Yankee Doodleville the other day with a page-one splash. He proclaimed that he has renounced booze—temporarily, that is. Moreover, he blasted the New York critics as "the butchers of Broadway." Surely Behan must be aware that butchers are expert at slicing ham.

Judy Holliday, a gifted comedienne with a lengthy record of triumphs, will try something different this season: Her inaugural dramatic effort: "Laurette" . . . Miss Holliday confesses the challenge is causing severe jitteritis. More than likely, she will clear that hurdle. Being frightened is hardly a novel emotion for the star. While preparing for her initial singing role in "The Belles Are Ringing," her confidence was so low during the early stages of rehearsal that she insisted on singing to one person at a time—and then only while standing in a corner with her back to the listener.

The Pennsylvania Story Verbal Slugfest

By Mason Denison Harrisburg — Pennsylvania's lawmakers return to their legislative desks on Capitol Hill

In the House of Representatives where administration forces hold the upper hand of control the story is somewhat different. There, Democrats have been successful in battling through two resolutions calling for final adjournment rather than recess—twice rejected by Senate Republicans.

Unfortunately for administration Democrats in their quest for getting out of town once and for all, one chamber alone cannot adjourn the Legislature—it requires the consent of both House and Senate.

Around Capitol Hill as lawmakers gather today for their return following their last (end of June) recess, anti-administration lawmakers have their blood in a boil—irked and nettled by the attacks of administration forces on their forced recess (in being) program during the interim between June 27 and the present.

They are sure to rip into Democratic Governor Lawrence, who for example, at his last press conference when asked by a reporter if he had "any sign that the Legislature may adjourn" this week, replied:

"I don't know. I haven't heard anything from the other side. I was shocked a few Sundays ago when one of the Republican State Senators said to me without batting an eye: 'When are you going to get those fellows out of Harrisburg?' And I said: 'I'd like to turn that around and ask you that.'"

Senate Republicans regard this as so much political hip-hiping as growing cabbages in mid-Winter. Our senators all know full well that it isn't up to the executive branch (the Governor) to get us out of town. I don't know how absurd you can get—maybe the Governor actually doesn't know that only the Legislature can get itself out of town."

And, House Democratic Floor Leader Stephen McCann's earlier assertion that it was costing Pennsylvania's taxpayers "an overall" $91,000 for the recess schedule currently embarked upon—a move referred to by McCann as "wholly unconscionable and absolutely unnecessary"—also has sent anti-administration blood above the boiling point.

"That's a pitifully cheap price to pay for legislative watchdogging and curtailing a spending-bent Democratic administration if nothing else," snapped one top House GOP leader, adding: "In addition we're carrying out our constitutionally mandated duty."

And there you have an illustration of the two divergent viewpoints currently plaguing Pennsylvania's legislative branch. Much is expected to be made in the campaign weeks ahead of the recess versus adjournment issue. The gathering of the legislative clan today is expected to spark the touch-off of the hassle—with the current election campaign serving significantly as the backdrop.

The war of words is just beginning. Which side is right is largely a matter of personal ideology and concepts.

Tough Talk Delayed

Washington — A sharp split among his top military and diplomatic advisers is delaying President Eisenhower's decision on whether to issue his warning to Cuba's Premier Castro.

Drafted by the Joint Chiefs of Staff for the President to issue last week, the statement warns Castro that the U. S. is prepared to use military force, if necessary, to hold the Navy's huge Guantanamo base in Cuba.

The statement, approved by President Eisenhower, has never been made public because of strong objections by Secretary of State Herter. Instead, the issuance of the warning to Castro is being held up by the President until after next week's meeting of the United Nations General Assembly in New York.

Secretary Herter won the delay in an unannounced White House meeting in which he convinced the President that such a blunt warning to the pro-Red dictator at this time might provoke him into staging an embarrassing "incident" against the U.S.

He told the President that the State Department had received "warnings" from well placed and non-alarmist observers that Castro was hunting for the right excuse to trump up an "incident" before the Sept. 20 meeting of the UN.

"We have definite information that Castro would like to create an incident so that he can fly to New York and join Premier Khrushchev in attacking us," Herter reported to the President. "I'm convinced that if you issue this statement now that Castro will use it to fake a U. S. air attack on Havana or send his students marching against Guantanamo."

"I agree that we should avoid provoking Castro until we see what happens at the UN," said the worried President. "If you want me to hold up this statement until after the General Assembly meets, I will do that."

Herter told the President that he thought "would be the wisest policy."

Tough Talk — The JCS statement had been presented to the President by Admiral Arleigh A. Burke, chief of Naval Operations, against a background of mounting threats to the base by the Castro brothers.

Premier Castro had just accused the U. S. of harboring "war criminals" at the naval base and training them for a fascist reserve. Raul Castro's defense minister, had bluntly said "I think 'some day the base will be Cuban.'"

Citing the need to answer these statements, Admiral Burke told the President that the only way to handle Castro was to make it clear to him that the U. S. does not intend to yield Guantanamo and that the U. S. will fight to defend the base.

"If you talk tough to Castro and tell him in unmistakable terms that we are going to fight for that base, I don't believe he will try to touch it with any size force that he might put together," Admiral Burke told the President. "Castro knows we have the force to back up this statement."

In briefing the President on the importance of Guantanamo, Admiral Burke pointed out that the base is vital to the defense of the Panama Canal and it is one of our primary fleet training installations.

He reported that the base has 1,700 permanent military personnel and their families, but on the average day the big base has a population of between 4,000 and 5,000 Navy officers and men from transient warships and aircraft.

Admiral Burke told the President that while the 3,000 Cuban civilian workers on the base might be a source for sabotage should Castro decide to harass the base, sufficient precautions had been taken so that no substantial harm could be done.

The U. S. pays $3,386.25 a year rent for the base under a 1903 agreement with Cuba specifying an annual payment of $2,000 in gold. The 1903 treaty, an aftermath of the Spanish American war in which the U. S. pried Cuba loose from Spain, provided for an indefinite U. S. lease of a "naval station."

With Cuba Independent, a new treaty on Guantanamo was signed May 29, 1934, in Washington. It stipulated the base should remain in U. S. hands until America abandoned it or until both parties agreed to modify or abrogate the treaty. So far, Castro has not made that request.

DIPLOMATIC POUCH — A group of 35 Cuban Air Force pilots and technicians have arrived in Czechoslovakia and are receiving flight and ground instructions on the MIG-17. U. S. Intelligence authorities report that the Cubans are being trained in Prague to fly jets that Castro already has purchased from the Czechs. Some U. S. Intelligence authorities believe that Castro, once he gets delivery of a substantial number of MIG-17s and has the pilots to fly them, may deliberately seek to produce incidents with the U.S.

Colombian authorities are becoming increasingly disturbed by the influx of Cuba-based agitators into that country, and by the propaganda activities of the Cuban Embassy in Bogota. They have reported to U. S. Embassy officials in Bogota that the Organization of American States will soon be asked to help halt these subversive operations.

Q—Abraham Lincoln won the election of 1860 because of a split between Southern and Northern states in the Democratic party. Who led the Southerners? the Northerners?

A—John C. Breckinridge led the Southerners; Stephen A. Douglas led the Northerners. Although Lincoln received only 40 percent of the popular vote, the split gave him a majority of the Electoral College vote.

Q—Four normally Democratic states defected to the States Rights movement in 1948, supporting J. Strom Thurmond for the Presidency. Can you name three of the four states?

A—Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina defected to the Dixiecrat States Rights movement. The term "Dixiecrat" is still used to describe the Congressmen who oppose the civil rights policies of the majority of the Democratic party.

Q—True or false: Texas did not vote for a Republican Presidential candidate until Dwight D. Eisenhower was nominated in 1952?

A—False. Texas voted for Herbert Hoover in 1928.

Q—"Fifty-four Forty or Fight" was an election slogan based on the issue of American versus British claims over the Oregon Territory. Who used this slogan and consequently became President?

A—James K. Polk, 1844. He benefited from the slogan, which referred to the 54th parallel that some Americans wanted as the northern border. The "fight" part of the slogan represented American nationalism and Manifest Destiny. President Polk

Eating Trouble

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Do any of you who have a cat for a pet know that these animals frequently get hair balls in their stomachs from cleaning themselves with their tongues?

Fortunately, cats can get rid of the hair balls fairly easily by eating grass and then simply vomiting up the troublesome lump of hair.

Now, children, too, occasionally get hair balls in the stomach. It occurs most frequently in little girls who chew on their braids, although other youngsters can also encounter the same trouble by swallowing long strands of hair picked up from combs and rugs.

Such hair balls can cause serious trouble. And eating grass won't solve the problem for youngsters. The only method of removing such hair balls is by surgery.

What Else Swallowed? Hair is not the only thing that children swallow, as parents well know. Children swallow aspirin and other medicines, and eat dirt, crayons, paints and just about anything on which they can get their chubby little hands.

It's up to the parents to keep dangerous drugs and other items out of their reach, and to watch the children closely while they are at play.

Probably the most dangerous and also one of the most common forms of poisoning comes from eating substances containing lead. Most baby toys and furniture are finished with paints which do not contain lead.

The danger, of course, is that, in refinishing such articles, the parents might use paints which do contain lead. In children between the ages of one and three, lead poisoning may cause severe brain damage and result in permanent mental retardation.

Eating Paint

Usually, the youngsters who are learning to walk are the ones who get into trouble by eating paint. They chew on window sills and they eat pieces of plaster which fall from cracked walls or ceilings.

Crayons, too, can be dangerous if eaten, particularly red and orange ones containing aniline dyes. Aniline is derived from coal tar. It changes the blood so that it cannot carry the normal amount of oxygen through the body.

So watch your children's "between meal snacks."

Congressional Quiz

Loyalty Of States

By Congressional Quarterly

The pattern of traditional loyalty by states to a particular party has become weaker in recent elections.

Both Presidential nominees are attempting to break traditionally "safe" states: Sen. John F. Kennedy will try to win the electoral vote of Maine, which voted Democratic only once in 1912; and Vice President Richard M. Nixon is shooting for the votes of North Carolina, which has voted Republican only once in the 20th Century—for Herbert Hoover in 1928.

This quiz tests your knowledge of state voting in Presidential elections. Try for four correct answers.

Q—True or false: There have been more Democratic than Republican Presidents?

A—False. The Presidential election has been won 16 times by Republicans and 10 times by Democrats since 1856, when the Republicans presented their first candidate—John C. Fremont.

Q—Which state has voted Republican in every Presidential election since 1856: (a) Iowa; (b) Mississippi; (c) Vermont?

A—(c). Vermont has voted 26 times for the Republican Presidential candidate in 26 elections. Georgia, on the other hand, has never voted Republican; but in 1860 it voted for the Southern Democratic party rather than support the national Democratic ticket in the year that Abraham Lincoln was elected President.

Q—True or false: Texas did not vote for a Republican Presidential candidate until Dwight D. Eisenhower was nominated in 1952?

A—False. Texas voted for Herbert Hoover in 1928.

Q—"Fifty-four Forty or Fight" was an election slogan based on the issue of American versus British claims over the Oregon Territory. Who used this slogan and consequently became President?

A—James K. Polk, 1844. He benefited from the slogan, which referred to the 54th parallel that some Americans wanted as the northern border. The "fight" part of the slogan represented American nationalism and Manifest Destiny. President Polk

Mrs. Frank Linton Patterson III

Miss Joan Elaine Cluck Bride Of F. L. Patterson

Frank Linton Patterson III and Miss Joan Elaine Cluck exchanged marriage vows on Saturday afternoon at 4:30 at Zion Lutheran Church, East Petersburg, Pa.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Harry F. Miles of 301 North 25th Court, Miami, Fla., and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Linton Patterson Jr., 1303 Dreher Ave., Stroudsburg.

Rev. Charles M. Heaps, Turbotville, brother of the bride, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Wayne Lefever was organist and also played the accompaniment for Miss Joan Bobb, soloist, who sang "Oh Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle Warren Cluck of Lancaster.

She wore a floor length gown of hand-clipped Chantilly lace over skinner satin. The fitted bodice featured a scalloped scoop neckline and bracelet-length, scalloped lace sleeves. The bouffant skirt terminated in a scalloped pointed chapel train. Her full, elbow-length veil of imported French illusion was held in place by a cap of Chantilly lace and seed pearls. She carried a white prayer book with a white orchid and stephanotis.

Miss Cluck was attended by Miss Trevena Stehman, Lancaster, maid of honor, and Mrs. Charles Heaps, sister-in-law of the bride, matron of honor. Her attendants wore identical gowns of ballerina length in a soft coffee tone of Chantilly lace over beige satin. The fitted bodice featured a scooped neckline and short cap sleeves. A brown velvet belt with tailored bow accented the unpressed pleated skirt.

WCTU Plans Activities For Youth

The first full meeting of the East Stroudsburg Women's Christian Temperance Union was held on September 9 in the Methodist Church with Mrs. Mabel Martin leading the devotion.

During the business meeting it was reported that a number of copies of the Boone's book, "Twixt Twelve and Twenty," had been placed in public school libraries.

An essay contest will be held in the schools and a film will be shown in the near future.

In her Union Signal report, Mrs. B. H. Hostetter announced that President Eisenhower has asked that October 5 be set aside as a day of prayer.

After a dedication service for the new members, each received a white ribbon, the emblem of the WCTU. Mrs. Johna Penz gave a number of readings.

Hostesses were Mrs. Chauncey Bensley, Mrs. Theodore Myers and Mrs. Dale Learn.

Esther Circle

Esther Circle of the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church will meet at the home of Mrs. R. C. Cramer, North Fifth St., on Monday afternoon at 1:30 p.m.

Rummage Sale

A rummage sale, sponsored by Hadassah, will be held for three days next week: Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the store-room next to the Grand Theater in East Stroudsburg. Clean, fresh merchandise will be featured.

Girl Scout Leaders Plan Training Camp

The annual Leaders Weekend at Camp Archbald is scheduled for September 24 and 25. It is a training weekend for adult Girl Scouts shared with the Scranton Council.

The weekend will offer basic or advanced training for new leaders, active leaders, district and neighborhood chairmen or administrative personnel.

The Monroe County Council is offering this training to interested adults and will assume the cost of the training. Leadership training is one of the many uses of the funds from the Community Chest.

Women Interested may call Mrs. Mary Gearhart, Monroe County training chairman, HA 1-7226 or may call the Girl Scout House, HA 1-1160 by September 13, since all reservations must be made by September 15.

Bereans Plan Meeting At Halstead Home

Bartonsville — Plans were made to meet at the home of Mrs. Margaret Halstead, on Friday night, October 7, when the Bereans of St. John's Lutheran Sunday School met at the parish house recently.

Mrs. Florence Marsh presided at a brief business session.

Devotions were led by Mrs. Marsh. Mrs. Sally Harps read the Scripture lesson.

Refreshments provided by Mrs. Ethel O'Dea and Mrs. Thomas G. Hawkes were served by Mrs. Hawkes and Mrs. Richard Metzgar. An arrangement of mixed seasonal flowers graced the table.

Members present were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Marsh, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dunbar, Mrs. Sally Harps, Mrs. Daisy Allegre, Mrs. Richard Metzgar, Mrs. Thomas G. Hawkes and Joseph Starner. Guests attending were Agnes Bachus and Emma Moon, of Falsington.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Throughout the long, rainless Summer in Italy, I thought that probably my first rainstorm when I got home would be welcome: the long slanting silver fingers of the rain as the poets say.

Well, it wasn't so poetical as all that. More inconvenient, especially with my wide-open windows that now I can't close and the sewer trench fill across Brown St. sinking down to make miniature Alpine crevasses across the road.

Besides, with Hurricane Donna making headlines, everybody seemed to have somebody to worry about down in Florida and the rain simply reminded me to worry about the Ostroms and the Liljensteins and the Kramers and all the rest. All of whom, incidentally, report they weathered the storm well.

And we do have a lot of our trans-Atlantic travelers home. Fran and Kenny Barthold looking very tanned and fit were welcomed back by their poker club with an international menu that included French onion soup, Italian spaghetti and tropical dessert—and American poker and a reprise of their "O Labor Day" anthem.

Barbara Stimson, now teaching in Mountain Lakes, N.J., was home for the weekend in the little foreign car in which she and her mother traveled around Europe, and Ruth Kistler, after more than a year in France, looks as if she's getting repatriated but still has some of her continental tan.

It's fun catching up on the news of the weddings and engagements, the golf matches and the new babies, and all the other things you've been up to this Summer, but from the looks of the calendar, we'll have little time for reminiscing from now on.

First meetings and Freshman dinks, sweaters and woolen skirts, school nights and board meetings. I guess we don't have to wait until September 21 to proclaim that summer is over.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT TRIOLA with Rev. Charles Eichman who performed the marriage ceremony at their Summer wedding.

(Coffman and Meyung)

Miss Judith Schipper Is Bride Of Robert Triola

Barrett — The Canadensis Moravian Church was the setting for the mid-Summer wedding of Miss Judith Schipper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Schipper of Canadensis, to Robert Triola, son of Mrs. Henry Jurgens and the late Victor Triola of Canadensis.

Rev. Charles Eichman performed the candlelight, double-ring ceremony at 4 p.m. on July 30. The church was decorated with vases of white and orchid gladioli. There was a floral piece of a dozen orchids in shades of lavender on the console and white satin ribbons marked the family pews.

Before the ceremony, Mrs. Lonnie Burch of Haines City, Fla., aunt of the bride, sang "Because." "O Promise Me," Rev. Eichman sang "The Lord's Prayer" during the ceremony. Mrs. Edward Price, Mountainhome was organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace over net and taffeta with a scalloped neckline embroidered with pearls and sequins. The long sleeves tapered to a point over the hands. A seed pearl crown held her fingertip veil and she carried a colonial bouquet of pompons and carnations with white satin streamers and a diamond necklace.

Miss Noreen Townsend of Stroudsburg, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a floor length gown of mint green silk organza over taffeta with a hat of mint green petals with a veil and carried a colonial bouquet of mint green carnations and white mums with green streamers.

Cheryl Starner and Joan Armitage of Stroudsburg; Carol Smith of Mountainhome and Janet Randolph of Bound Brook, N.J. were bridesmaids. They wore floor length gowns of lilac silk organza over taffeta with matching petal hats and carried colonial bouquets of lilac and white cushion mums with lavender streamers.

Tina Brush, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Brush of Canadensis, was flower girl. She carried a small basket of rose petals and wore a flower crown of white and lilac flowers.

Charles Starner Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Starner of Stroudsburg, was ring-bearer, carrying the double rings on a satin pillow.

Richard Thomen of Rochester,

N.Y. served as best man. Ushers were Robert Lee, Canadensis and Elroy Schipper Jr., Canadensis, brother of the bride.

A reception for 150 guests was held in the social room of the church. The bridal table was decorated with wedding candles and lily of the valley and silver bells made of cake.

The three-tier wedding cake was topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom.

For traveling the bride wore a two-piece dress of Alice blue trimmed with silver and white accessories. Their wedding trip took them to El Paso, Texas, stopping at points of interest in Arizona and Colorado. They will make their home in El Paso until Mr. Triola's military service is completed.

He is a graduate of Barrett High School and Temple University and of the Nike Ajax school of Guided Missiles. His bride was also graduated from Barrett High School and the Elmer and Tarrang School of Comptometry.

Perruso-Gruver Wedding Held In Bangor Church

Mrs. David Samuel Perruso (Lens Art)

Bangor — Miss Lailani Georgene Gruver, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George M. Gruver of 216 Pennsylvania Ave., Bangor, was married on Saturday morning at 11 a.m. in Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, Bangor, to David Samuel Perruso, son of Mrs. Thomas C. Perruso, 2446 Freemansburg Ave., Easton and the late Thomas C. Perruso.

Rev. James Fitzgerald CM performed the ceremony with Mrs. Bonnie Miller as organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of organza over taffeta with appliques of Alencon lace. It was fashioned with a portrait neckline, and a three-tiered bustle with chapel length train. Her bridal bouquet was of white orchids on a mistle with trailing ivy, and baby orchids and lily on the prie-dieu.

Mrs. Phyllis Sabatine of Brooklyn, N.Y., was matron of honor. She wore satin faced taffeta with a scoop neckline and carried white glimmillas and trailing ivy.

The bridesmaids wore similar gowns: Miss Loretta Caccese, Phillipsburg, N.J.; Miss Catherine Reed, Easton; Miss Rosemarie Turchi, Alpha, N.J.; Mrs. Dolores Fishler, Roseto; with the junior bridesmaids, Miss Janice Lambert, Bangor, and Miss Kathleen and Miss Theresa Perruso, Easton.

The bridesmaid, Miss Mary Ann Jacob, daughter of Mrs. Kathryn Jacob, Ackermanville, wore a miniature of the bridesmaids gowns. Neil Jacob was ring-bearer.

Jack Hutnic of Easton was best man. Ushers were Joseph Clambone, Easton; Joseph Borini, Lou Ferrante, and Stephen Magino, all of Easton.

After a reception at the Columbia Hotel, Columbia, N.J.,

IDENTIFY THE VOICE—

Almost everyone enjoys a contest now and then, I believe, and so, this morning, we are beginning one as a feature of our Wyckoff Shopper broadcast over WVPO at quarter of ten. Today through Friday and next Monday through Wednesday, there will be a different voice featured each day. Eight voices in all. If you can identify the person, you must call him at Wyckoff's, or come into the store and see him, and you will be given a clue word. These eight clue words form a sentence. When you have listed all the voices and the sentence, you submit your entry to our Wyckoff cashier. The three winners will be announced Saturday, September 24th, and will receive merchandise prizes valued at 15.00, 7.50, and 5.00.

Although I said "him" in describing the voices above, these will not all be men's voices. Women are also to be identified. All of these people are well known to our Wyckoff customers . . . because all are Wyckoff employees very much in contact with the public. If you shop Wyckoff's regularly, and have a keen ear for voices, you should have no trouble identifying any of them.

Don't forget to listen this morning, at quarter of ten, when the fun begins. Then, just to make things even easier, on Wednesday morning, September 21st, the program will go on the air for an extra ten minutes and all the voices will be presented once again. Of course, if you listen each day, you'll have more time to make your decision and work on your clue words. Everybody's welcome to participate.

In all my years with Wyckoff's I have never seen our store looking lovelier than it does right this minute as we celebrate "Import Days." As I mentioned in two recent columns, a trip through the various departments is actually a trip around the world. For our stock includes choice merchandise from everywhere . . . and most of it is very reasonably priced.

I'm not sure why boxes intrigue me as they do . . . yes, even empty ones . . . but they always have, and I think you too might be interested in all of those from England, Germany, and other lands being shown now in our gift department. Of tin, they have unusual and, in many cases, very colorful designs. Many have recessed lids that make them splendid for keeping cookies, candies and cigarettes fresh. Priced at 59c there's a pretty Oriental box, with a Japanese geisha upon the lid . . . and at 1.00 there is a box resembling Wedgwood.

I admire delft, of course, as well as the big selection of copper from Iran, and particularly like the demi tasse service in ornate copper with cups of china (without handles) in heavy metal stands. Those cups are just about the size of egg cups, come to think of it—but just right, I suppose, for drinking the thick, syrupy coffee for which they are intended.

In our candy department, Elsie Miller has decorated a table of imported candies and cakes, with a tree that holds miniature flags of 100 nations. It's hard to believe there are that many flags—and more—and it's quite a challenge to try identifying them. Our famous Keiller candy from Scotland is still a great favorite, I notice—and there are some new flavors that look delicious.

If you haven't participated in Import Days as yet, plan to do so soon. You'll enjoy all the color . . . all that is unique and unusual . . . and all the excitement, I'm sure. And visit our Sears store too—you'll save money there on 74th anniversary buys. Happy birthday, Sears!

Answer: Most steps are about you run into difficulty is when the height of the porch is such

Mobile Homes Of Today Offer Low Maintenance

TODAY, more than three million persons are enjoying a new yet old way of life... some of them because of job requirements, some because of economy but most because they enjoy the low maintenance and easy housekeeping offered in today's mobile homes.

Mobile living is as old as civilization because from the dawn of time man has been faced with the necessity of moving his home. Although the mobile home, towed behind a point of convenience giving it car is an innovation just since the 1930s, it has developed to a all and more of the comforts of a stationary home.
Today's modern mobile homes are especially good buys because they include every conceivable necessity, including refrigerator, tub and shower facilities,

Huffman Co. Introduces Air Purifier

A NEW automatic air purifier which gives the effect of "airing out" the home or business establishment every 30 minutes has been introduced locally by the Lawton Huffman Company of Marshalls Creek, Pa.
Lawton Huffman, owner of the local firm, says the new device, which is manufactured by Carrier Corporation, removes tobacco and cooking odors, washes dust and pollen from indoor air, and humidifies the house in the winter.

According to Huffman, the purifiers can be easily connected to the central heating or air-conditioning system. It operates by sending the air through a thick aluminum mesh filter which is bathed three times a minute with a special odor-removing liquid called Carrex.

Dust is washed off the filter into a collecting pan at the bottom which needs to be emptied only once a year. Odors are "cooked" out of the Carrex in a regenerator and ejected outdoors through a vent.

A built-in humidistat meters the right amount of water needed to maintain humidity at a comfortable level in winter.
Thus homeowners can protect their furnishings from damage due to excessive dryness and prevent the spreading of dust and formation of static electricity. The humidity control also prevents excess moisture from condensing on windows and walls.

The purifier is available in two sizes suitable for homes and small businesses, Huffman said. He predicts it will be widely used in restaurants and other establishments and will eventually become a part of every air conditioning system.

$1,200 Fixed As Goal For Palsy Drive

A GOAL of $1,200 has been set for Monroe County's 1960 "53 Minute March on Cerebral Palsy." It was announced yesterday by Mrs. Vincent Marek, general chairman of the drive which will be held Wednesday.

Care, treatment and rehabilitation of the cerebral palsied ranks among the costliest of handicapping disorders, she said. $1,200, which Monroe County has been asked to raise, reflects an increase in the demand for vital services which these handicapped persons must have in order for them to achieve their maximum degree of independence and self-reliance.

These services must not only be maintained, but increased if we are to continue to enlarge the horizons for the handicapped in this county. By so doing we not only help these individuals achieve personal self-respect, but also help relieve our community of the ultimate burden of supporting dependent persons, Mrs. Marek said.

She also pointed out that a portion of the over-all local goal would be directed to the national cerebral palsy research program, which supports many of the nation's leading scientists in their efforts to discover the methods by which cerebral palsy, now afflicting 600,000 persons, ultimately may be prevented.

"In this pre-Christmas season, this season of good will, we appeal to the public to earmark, to set aside, a small sum for the 1960 Cerebral Palsy drive on Sept. 14. We must meet our goal. The sum of $1,200 must be raised so that Monroe County can continue its service to the many cerebral palsied of our community," Mrs. Marek stated.

When you choose
flameless electric water heater

It's smart to get all the advantages you can when you buy a water heater. And that narrows the wise choice down to just one . . . a flameless automatic electric water heater . . . and here's why!

IT'S CAREFREE — install it . . . forget it . . . no fuel to order, no burner to light nor keep adjusted.

IT'S CLEAN — as dirt-free as electric light.

IT'S ADAPTABLE — no flue or chimney connections needed . . . install it nearest your point of greatest daily hot water use for top efficiency.

IT'S FULLY INSULATED — top, sides and bottom . . . touchably cool.

IT'S LOW COST — under PP&L's special water heating rate, you can heat about 40 gallons of water for less than the cost of a pint of milk.

Soviet Dominated Games Close After 18 Days

ROME (AP)—The 1960 Olympic Games, the modern world's greatest sports festival, closed Sunday with a moving, tradition-filled ceremony that stirred a massive crowd of 100,000 to mighty cheers.

Eighteen days of record-shattering events, dominated by Soviet athletes, came to an end in dramatic fashion as a brilliant sun went down behind the city's western hills.

In the dusk in the magnificent Olympic Stadium, where the games opened Aug. 25 thousands of tiny torches were burned in the stands — many spectators improvising by putting a match to their programs.

There was silence as the Olympic flame was extinguished.

Roar Follows

But when the Olympic flag was lowered and carried out of the stadium for the last time, the crowd broke into a roar that seemed to be strong enough to carry to Tokyo—site of the next Olympic in 1964.

Mike Troy of Indianapolis, Ind., the newly crowned Olympic butterfly swimming champion, was to have carried the American flag. But in a last minute switch the honor went to U.S. Marine Capt. William W. McMillan, of Turtle Creek, Pa., gold medal winner in the rapid fire pistol competition after a dramatic shoot-off.

This time, the parade of participating nations included only a flag-bearer for each country. On opening day, there was an hour long parade of athletes behind their respective flags.

International Olympic Committee President Avery Brundage of Chicago, 72, solemnly pronounced the games closed in Italian. Brundage, inflexible advocate of pure amateurism, had scored his own Roman victory just before the games started by being unanimously reelected IOC president.

As many eyes glistened in an Auld Lang Syne spirit, the Olympic flame, which burned continuously in a tripod atop the stadium slowly died away.

Last Event

It was nearly nightfall when the final Olympic event, the equestrian jumping grand prix, was won by Germany. The first gold medal of the games had been taken by Italy on Aug. 26.

The United States won the silver medal in the equestrian jumping Sunday with Italy third. The U. S. team of George Morris of New Canaan, Conn., Frank Chapot of Wallpack, N.J., and Bill Steinkraus of Westport, Conn., had a team total of 66 penalty points.

The winning Germans had 46½, the Italians 80½.

As for the over-all Olympic competition, the Russians again emerged the unofficial champions, just as they did in the 1956 games at Melbourne. In the two-country battle for top laurels, Russia took 43 gold medals and scored 807½ points, against the United States' 34 first-place medals and 564½ points. At Melbourne, Russia won 37 gold medals and scored 722 points. America came up with 32 gold medals and 593 points.

However, in the games' kingpin sport, track and field, Uncle Sam grabbed 12 gold medals against 11 for Russia.

The United States took nine men's gold medals and three women's firsts as Wilma Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., became the only double-winner in track and field and also led America's girl 400-meter relay team to a world record of 44.4. Russia had six women's gold medals, five men's.

The United States also dominated the swimming competition, capturing 11 of 19 possible gold medals to the dismay of the confident Australians.

In basketball, America again was in a class by itself, easily sweeping to a fifth consecutive Olympic triumph, with the Russians finishing second.

Simmons Stops Phils 7-3 A Cards Gain On Bucs

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Curt Simmons, dropped by the Philadelphia Phillies in June, continued to torment his former teammates by beating them for the fourth straight time as the St. Louis Cardinals romped to a 7-3 victory Sunday. The southpaw allowed only five hits.

Giants, Reds Split Pair

CINCINNATI (AP)—Willie McCovey's 13th season homer headed San Francisco's 11th shutout in a 3-2 victory over Cincinnati Sunday in a doubleheader nightcap.

The Reds eked out a 2-1 triumph in the opener on Gus Bell's home run.

The second game, rescheduled from Saturday's rainout, sealed the season between the two second division teams at 11 victories each.

Yanks Drop Tribe Twice To Up Lead To Full Game

CLEVELAND (AP)—The New York Yankees coupled good pitching and the long ball to sweep a double header from the Cleveland Indians here Sunday 5-0 and 3-2 and increase their first-place margin over Baltimore to a full game.

Mickey Mantle's 34th home run off reliever Carl Mathias with two out and none on in the 11th inning of the nightcap broke a 2-2 tie in a battle which saw the clubs deadlocked at 1-1 from the second inning until the tenth, when each got a run.

Hector Hot

A home run and triple by Hector Lopez and a home run and a home run and double by Roger Maris were the big blows in the nine-hit attack the Yanks leveled at Jim Perry in the opener. Ralph Terry, whose 8-8 record includes a two-hit shutout of the Indians Aug. 27, whitewashed them Sunday on five hits.

New York has beaten Cleveland nine in a row, 11 of the last 12 and 16 out of 22 for the season series concluded today.

Pad Lead

And the Yankees added a half game to the league lead they regained Saturday from Baltimore, which won a single game Sunday in Kansas City, 4-0.

A crowd of 33,403 was kept on the edge of its seats in the nightcap, which was tied after every inning but the first and the last.

L. A. Hands Braves Five Hit Shutout

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Don Drysdale pitched two hit ball for his fifth shutout of the season Sunday as the Los Angeles Dodgers threw a further damper on the Milwaukee Braves' faint pennant hopes with a 2-0 victory.

The defeat left the third place Braves seven and a half games behind the league leading Pittsburgh Pirates, who were rained out of a double header with the Chicago Cubs. It also showed them a full game back of the St. Louis Cardinals in the battle for second place.

Los Angeles 100 001 000—2 5 0
Milwaukee 000 000 000—0 2 2
Drysdale and Roseboro; Burdette and Crandall, W.—Drysdale (14-13), L.—Burdette (16-10).

In Temple Scrimmage

Warriors Flash Offense They Lacked In 1959

I UNDERSTAND you have a good ball club," Jack Gregory said to Temple football coach George Makris, before East Stroudsburg scrimmaged the Owls at Normal Hill Saturday.

"I hope we can stay with you and make the workout worthwhile for your team."

The Warriors not only stayed with Temple but came out on the long end of a 14-6 count in the early morning game conditions-workout, that drew several hundred fans.

The Warrior first team played less than a quarter as a unit but it showed an offensive punch that the Normal Hillers lacked last year. And the defense was just as good as it was in 1959, when East Stroudsburg blanked six of its nine opponents and tied Mississippi for the most shutouts in a row, five.

Race Rumps

Halfbacks Bill Race and Donnie Schleicher accounted for most of the ground yardage. Race picked up 119 yards in 14 carries for an 8.5 yard-per-carry average and Schleicher averaged 5.6 yards on 14 carries.

Fullback Joe Heverin clipped in with a 4.1 yard average in seven trips.

And freshman Toby Barkman,

who is probably the fastest man on the squad, sprinted for several long gains, including a 60-yard touchdown run in an extra scrimmage session, that followed the game type affair.

Without seeing movies of the scrimmage, the Warrior coaching staff singled out co-captains Dick Wolslayer and Sterling Brown, along with Walt Snyder for defensive praise.

Wolslayer an offensive center, shifted between line backer and wingman on defense.

Great Pursuit

"Wolslayer's pursuit was tremendous," said Gregory, "he was all over the field making tackles."

Brown, who was getting his first taste of defensive football with the Warriors was in on most of the tackle and Snyder, an offensive quarterback and defensive halfback, batted down several passes and made a handful of open-field tackles.

And Makris had a great deal of respect for Ed Beecker, the Warrior's big defensive left end.

"Most of our power plays were to the right," said the Temple coach, "but we found we couldn't get by Becker, so we ran to the other side."

Others who pleased Gregory were Jim Richardson, an end, center Max Shoemaker, tackle Mike Bollendorf, Jack Cassebaum, linebacker and guard and Carl Krein, up from last year's junior varsity, who was changed from a line backer to a defensive tackle.

Hendricks Works

Ken Hendricks, who took part in contact work for the first time after being sidelined with high blood pressure made a good showing on defense.

But Gregory wasn't pleased with everyone's play.

I thought we had more depth at halfback and defensive end," he said "but the scrimmaged showed I was wrong."

And Gregory is still looking for a Raider team. The Raiders are a strictly defensive club, used to rest the first unit.

Saturday's workout served as a final test before the squad is trimmed to 44 players.

"We will make our decision about the varsity squad after watching the movies," said Gregory. "On Monday we will be down to 44 players."

The Warriors will work only once a day starting Monday. The club opens its nine-game schedule Saturday afternoon at Millersville.

Palmer Reaches $75,488.90

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—Golf's biggest money winner this year, Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., has pocketed $75,488.90 this year, figures from the Professional Golfers Association show.

His nearest rival in the money competition is Ken Venturi of Palo Alto, Calif., who has won $41,833. Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., is third with $38,833.

Palmer ranks second in top tournament point standings with 1,708, behind Doug Ford, Crystal River, Fla., with 1,826.

Palmer and Finsterwald are vying for the Vardon trophy, given to the golfer with the lowest stroke average based on a minimum of 60 rounds. Palmer has averaged 70.337 shots for 80 rounds, and Finsterwald 70.545 for 77 rounds.

Browns Trade Billy Howton

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Browns have traded end Billy Howton to the Dallas Cowboys for a draft choice.

Howton, acquired by the Browns from Green Bay in a trade prior to the 1959 season, had said he was retiring this year. But he apparently changed his mind.

A veteran of eight years in the National Football League, Howton starred at Rice Institute and was the Packers' second draft choice in 1952. He scored 13 touchdowns, catching 53 passes for 1,231 yards his first year with the Packers.

MUCH NEW CONSTRUCTION is visible in this scene overlooking Tinubu Square, Lagos, Nigeria, West Africa. Picture was sent to The Daily Record, along with accompanying story, by Jack Gelinas, formerly of East Stroudsburg, who is associated with Mobil Oil Nigeria Ltd. in Lagos.

Third Tax Payment Due This Week

PAYMENT of the third installment of estimated tax is due Thursday for those taxpayers who filed original declarations for Federal income tax on or before last April 18. R. P. Brownell, district director of Internal Revenue, reminded taxpayers yesterday.

Director Brownell said if a taxpayer finds that his estimated tax is substantially increased or decreased as a result of a change in income or exemptions, he should file an amended declaration on or before the same date—Sept. 15.

He said an individual who wishes to amend his estimated tax as originally filed, should use the form provided on the reverse side of the bill which is mailed to him for estimated tax payments. If he does not receive a bill, Form 1040-ES (Amended) should be used.

Returns To Find City Growing

By Jack Gelinas

FROM MY OFFICE here on the fifth floor, overlooking Broad St. directly below and the lagoon two blocks away, where mail-boats and freighters, flying flags of many nations, mingle with wonder and amazement, I look out at the development that has taken place since first I looked out these same windows in September 1958. The change is phenomenal!

Those two short years ago I, a member looking with a child's interest at the sea of rusted corrugated sheet-metal roofs below, extending to the waterfront and off in other directions as far as the eye could see. Few could look down as I did, as the company's fifth floor offices were then the highest in all the city.

From these same windows today I count 17 new buildings, each a little more modern, a little more expensive to build and a little taller than the other. Most have been started and completed in the past year. Others are nearing completion. And at least 17 more are on the drawing boards.

The new Ministry of Finance headquarters (Mosaic House) across the way, hides much of my view now, as does the National Investment Company's three-quarters of a million dollar, ten-story office building, with central air-conditioning. And bigger and better things are coming. An office building with 25-floors, covering two Lagos city-blocks is beginning to rise a few streets behind us.

Underground Wires

The Nigeria Electric Corp. has gone underground with miles of wire as has the Ports and Telegraph Department with its telephone lines. Hundreds of new, up-to-the-minute, boulevard-type street lights are being put up along the major thoroughfares every day.

Many of the once narrow, sometimes ugly streets have been widened, as have the approaches to Carter Bridge—the only artery connecting Lagos with the mainland. In some parts of the city open-drains have been covered. Curb has been built.

Half the length of the Marina is now flanked by side-walks (on both sides), from the Prime Minister's residence, on past Government House, to the traffic light just this side of Kingsway Department Store. A half-mile away, where the road suddenly widens to make access to the new Lagos Town Council's free parking lot.

If I lean from these windows and look in the direction of Tinubu Square, a few hundred feet from our building, I can still see the old church with its clock-tower, now seeming to stand somewhat bewildered in its coat of new paint—for Independence.

In looking toward the square the old church is about all that is familiar. It is one of the few landmarks of Lagos that have been allowed to remain, unchanged—except, of course, for painting.

Court House Razed

The antiquated City Court House which sat squat in the middle of the Square, shaded by mango trees too old to bear fruit, was torn down in May. The scene has been replaced by machines and artisans of many trades working night and day, against the tower clock, to complete a new landmark—Independence Fountain in Independence Square.

In other parts of the city many slum areas have been spruced-up and painted. Other sombre areas, with shacks and shanties in need of far more than a paint-brush, have been completely razed during the past year, with the inhabitants moved at government expense to new areas and new quarters. They are nice too.

But the hand of progress can extend only so far in its battle, and even in the heart of Lagos there are those areas where fences are being built to curtain the shambles from the eye of the unknown visitor on October 1.

And there are still entire streets that have yet to realize a half-penny of the nearly ten million dollars being spent this year by the L. E. D. B. (Lagos Executive Development Board) in its "Operations Face-lift," for Independence Year, 1960. But next year is still another year.

It's raining today and I can't help but worry about the elaborate decorations that grace the streets; they are bound to warp, and others will fray. But I wonder—in another few weeks, after everyone has rested from the celebrations—who will care.

Terrorist Activity

MANILA (AP)—The Philippine constabulary said that terrorist activity by remnants of the Communist Huk rebels has increased in recent months. But they pose no threat to the security of the Philippines. An official estimated the number of active Huk at 200.

Dear Abby

A Past Or A Future

Dear Abby: I am 51 years old and have had a few dates with a widow woman who is a little bit older. I tried to put my arm around her and she stopped me — saying it wouldn't be fair to her husband who has been dead for 21 years. I don't expect her to forget him altogether as I wouldn't want my wife, who has been dead for nine years to forget me, but my question is, hasn't she waited long enough? Also, should I keep trying?

BART

Dear Bart: This woman is living with a memory, and apparently she likes it that way. If you are looking for a nice sisterly companion, she'll do. But if you have other ideas, you'd better find a live one.

Goddard Set For Dedication

HARRISBURG (AP)—Maurice K. Goddard, secretary of Forests and Waters, will preside at dedication ceremonies of the new Stillwater Dam and Reservoir at Forest City, Susquehanna County, Sept. 14. The dam on the Lackawanna River is a conservation and flood control project.

Beers Awarded Road Contract

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Highways Department has awarded a contract to J. H. Beers Construction Co., Bangor, for $231,827 for work on legislative routes in Bangor and Roseto boroughs.

How can I overcome false appetites?

THE TRUTH IN THIS GREAT BOOK CAN RELEASE YOU

You can be freed from any false appetite if you will turn with a receptive, unprejudiced thought to the truth contained in this great book, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy.

You may read or borrow Science and Health free of charge at a Christian Science Reading Room. The book can be purchased in red, green, or blue binding at $3 and will be sent postpaid on receipt of check or money order.

Dear Abby: Recently you said some of the new hair-do's looked like an "unmade Army cot." There are five of us guys here on Guam who want to know how you would know what an unmade Army cot looks like.

SNOOPY

Dear Snoopy: My husband was in the Infantry in World War Two, and he described it to me.

Dear Abby: I am expecting a baby soon. If it's a boy I would like to name him after my husband, whose name is Bill. The only trouble is that there are so many Bills in our family already. My father's name is Bill and my small brother's name is Bill. My husband's father is also Bill and there are three cousins named Bill. All the Bills are not called Bill. There is "Little Bill" (my Bill) and "Bilby Boy" (my kid brother) and "Big Bill" (my father-in-law), so I would appreciate your opinion on this matter. Thank you. PAULA

Dear Paula: If you want to name your baby after your husband, go ahead and name him "Just Plain Bill." Good luck.

Dear Abby: The TV set is our problem. Now don't get me wrong. We have a TV.

Tomorrow Only, Scalp Specialists In Easton, Penna. Will Show How To Save Hair and Prevent Baldness

Tuesday, Sept. 13, at Easton Hotel in Easton, Pa., Staff Director, Mr. J. L. Thomas will give free hair and scalp consultation between 1 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. to hair worried men and women.

Erickson Hair and Scalp Specialists, the oldest and largest organization of its kind makes regular visits to Easton, Pa.

Before After
Mr. T. A. Melton, Jr.

Throughout the year to assure you of success in a minimum period of time. Erickson is now in its seventh year. Last year alone, over one-quarter million Erickson home scalp treatments were used.

Baldness is slow and gradual, even in the most common forms. The source of the most common causes are mistreatment and neglect.

If you now, or have in the past, noticed dandruff, itchy scalp, excessive oiliness or dryness, excessive hair fall or thinning at the temples or crown, you should see Mr. J. L. Thomas tomorrow. He will determine the type of individual treatment required, explain to you what results you can expect, how long you will have to use Erickson treatment, and how much the cost will be, which is usually less than imitations.

FREE CONSULTATION
There is absolutely no charge or obligation for your free hair and scalp consultation. The only obligation is to yourself, to save your hair and gain more coverage if your "hair-factory" is still producing even

"fuzz." You can easily follow this new modern method in the privacy of your home.

Before After
Mrs. Virginia Barnes

In a great majority of cases of baldness and excessive hair loss (a condition described as male pattern baldness), we know of no treatment including the Erickson treatment that is of value. None of the persons shown have male pattern baldness.

GUARANTEED SATISFACTION

You will be given a written guarantee by the Erickson Hair and Scalp Specialists for the length of time treatment is required on a pro-rated basis. Don't be skeptical—this guarantee alone assures you of success. So, why put off your hair problem any longer?

Before After
Mr. K. Fryer

For your free hair and scalp consultation, go to the Easton Hotel between 1 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. on Sept. 13, in Easton, Pa., and ask the room clerk for Mr. J. L. Thomas' room number, or call him. He does not make appointments, so come at your convenience. Consultations are given in private. You will not be embarrassed in any way.
